Life In The USA

The past two months have gone by fast!

This summer was a good mixture of relaxation and work. I had a fantastic time connecting with friends and family. It was good to catch up with people and connect once again. I also really enjoyed helping out with the Collide missions trip and with Camp Courageous. I really enjoyed serving alongside the community and learning about all of the new ministries people are involved with. It has been encouraging to see how things have been growing.

I am currently on the airplane headed back to Guatemala for another year of teaching. I am looking forward to meeting new staff members and getting to know new students. I cannot wait to get there! Tomorrow begins our staff orientation and in a week, school starts again. Things seem to be moving very quickly this year.

Please pray that the beginning of this school year would go well and that my heart and mind would be prepared for the upcoming year.

Thank you all, for your prayers and consistent support! If you would like to support me financially, donations can be made at:
